

REACT Critical Response Notification

A Complete Solution for Critical Security Communications

The REACT interface to Honeywell's Pro-Watch® and WIN-PAK® access control platforms provides a complete solution for instant, reliable communication of security events to first responders, staff, and personnel outside the organization. Because REACT messages can be tailored for each event, you can be certain that your audience receives the information relevant to them.

Faster Response Times

REACT provides the ability to communicate very quickly, but notification is only one piece of a complete response solution—it is essential that initiation of events take place as quickly as possible to start the process of communication. REACT working seamlessly with Pro-Watch and WIN-PAK makes this instantaneous, speeding the time from event occurrence to communication of specific information to relevant parties to just a few seconds.

Flexible Events

REACT events can be generated by a wide variety of situations. You can define specific conditions to trigger a notice—whether access, intelligent video, temperature monitoring, fire, duress, or other events.

Easy to Configure and Manage

Each event in Pro-Watch and WIN-PAK can be connected to an alert in REACT for a specific audience with a message and priority level. Targeted communications can be sent to desktops, public displays, cell phones, telephones or via email. Additionally, alerts can be managed over time with updates and “all clear” notices issued.

The Right Information

REACT provides instructional information based on geography or responsibility, ensuring individuals have the communication relevant to them. Notifications combine diagrams, video, text and audio messages defined in advance with additional details provided at the time of the event—ensuring that information provided is specific and relevant.
